It was long ago proposed to erect some memorial to that ill-fated young gentleman, who had rendered himself so popular and made so many friends, and several Committee had prepared a scheme which subscribers. This was to devote the money raised to the erection of a convalescent ward in the General Hospital, Shanghai, and call subscribers was accordingly held at the Royal Asiatic Society's Rooms, Shanghai, on the 15th instant, to consider the question. Mr. MEDHURST, the Chairman of the Committee, pointed out that the smallness of the amount at their disposal, some seven hundred dollars, would not suffice to erect a monument that would be effective and artistic. and on that ground the Committee recommended the Hospital scheme. This did not, those present, by whom it was urged. would be torgotten after a few years, and that persons would have to be ill before they now the momorial There is some force in this objection; the memorial ward would annual report of the Hospital. Then there were proposals for the foundation of a scholarship in the native college at Ningpo, or a reredes for the Church of St. Saviour at Hongkew. But neither of these are absolutely free from objection. In the former, case, although the idea is a good one, the bulk of the subscribers either reside or are interested in Shanghai, and would greatly prefer the memorial being located in that Settlement; while in the latter it is open to much the same objections as the Hospital ward scheme, in not being sufficiently public and conspicuous. To our thinking, a neat clock tower or a public drinking fountain, both of which ideas have been propounded, are preferable to any of the foregoing commission of experts to assist the Officer of suggestions, and would find most favour Justice in inquiring into the matter of Not only is a public clock a great convenience; it is also a great ornament. GORILLAS IN CENTRAL AFRICA. Lieutenant Cameron, in the sketch of his journey which he is contributing to Good Words, says-From Akalunga we went away north with slashing fair winds, mountainous neople employed about their cultivation looking like flies on the side of the wall. One day, passing close in to the shore. I saw a _eouple of gorillas amongst the trees; but we passed them before I could get my gun ready, and when I mut back to try for a shot I found that they had disappeared. They were great big fellows, and looked larger than men. The natives say they build a hut every night and make a regular bed-place to sleep on; but they laugh at them and call them tools, as, if caught in the rain, they do not go to their comfortable huts for shelter, but sit cowering out in the open with their hands clasped behind their necks. One or two Arab traders at different places along the coast told me they could get thirty five pounds of ivery for forty yards of cloth, and a good slave for twenty.
